[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Sept. 23.—The American consulate at Stuttgart, Germany, was struck by a fragment of a bomb during a recent raid upon that place by French aviators, according to a message today from Consul Higgins. He said no one in the consulate was injured, but did not indicate whether the building was greatly damaged.

Raid Royal Palace

Paris, Sept. 23.—A French aerial squadron today raided Stuttgart, capital of the kingdom of Wurttemberg, and dropped a hundred bombs on the royal palace and the railway station. The raiders dropped a number of bombs on the town and villages passed in the voyage to Stuttgart from the French lines and on the return, the aeroplanes were fired upon by many anti-aircraft batteries during the voyage, but all returned safely. In retaliation for the bombardments by the Germans of coast towns and civilian populations of France and England, the official statement says, a group of aeroplanes set out this morning to bombard Stuttgart, capital of Wurttemberg. About a hundred shells were dropped on the royal palace and the station. Our aeroplanes, which were cannonaded at different points along the line, returned in safety to their base.

One Machine Routs Six.

One French aeroplane, carrying Lieutenant Dain as observer and Sergeant Garnier as pilot, attacked and defeated a fleet of six German battle aeroplanes, it was revealed in a general order published today. Both French aviators are mentioned for conspicuous gallantry.

The fight took place over Nancy. Two French aviators attacked the German machines one by one, preventing them from bombing.

Russ Troops Escape.

Petrograd, Sept. 23.—The Russian military authorities regard the withdrawal from very difficult position near Vilna which for a time seriously menaced a large army as virtually complete. They assert the Germans have lost 250,000 men in their recent operations in this region.

Germans Drive at Dvinsk.

London, Sept. 23.—The strongly fortified Russian city of Dvinsk, on the Dvina, 110 miles southeast of Riga, has become the new German objective, now that the Russian armies apparently have escaped from the Vilna net. The German forces east and southeast of Lida are now making more rapid progress, but their increased speed at this time is expected to gain for them little in view of the fact that the retreat of the greater part of the Russian forces now seems to be assured.

The chief success of the Germans in the last day or two has been along the Dvina front, which bars the road to Petrograd. Southward, the invaders have captured Russian trenches on a front of nearly two miles, taking 2,000 prisoners and eight machine guns. Further down the river near Friedland, the Russians have gained a minor success.

Slow Unrest Quiet.

For the time being, the domestic situation in Russia is quiet. In protest of the prorogation of the Duma have been suspended, but may be revived if the government persists in its opposition to the movement in favor of reassembling parliament, and permitting the formation of a new cabinet.

Along the western front the French report the destruction of a German patrol in Champagne. Berlin states that the patrol was withdrawn after destroying fence works. Mobilization of Bulgarian forces continues to incite keen interest, but the belligerents as well as the neutral world, seems to be in the dark as to the purpose which dictates this movement.

Germans Report Gain.

Berlin, Sept. 23.—The new German offensive movement with its object the capture of the important Russian fortress city of Dvinsk has made definite progress. The war office announced today that the Russian advance positions west of the city had been penetrated and that more than 2,000 prisoners and several machine guns had been captured.

A reply from Vienna is expected within a few days. In requesting safe conduct Dr. Dumba asked the state department that his government had recalled him home on leave, adding that he planned to sail September 28. Pending receipt of the Austro-Hungarian reply, however, the question whether the Washington government will be satisfied Vienna carries out Dr. Dumba's request and gives notice that he is to be withdrawn "on leave," will not be determined.

It was said that workmen making shells were being paid on the bonus system for their work. Officers of the company would not discuss the situation.

CLAIMS RECOGNITION OF CARRANZA MEANS ANARCHY IN MEXICO

Villa Element Must Be Given Consideration in Pacification Plans Says Gonzalez Garza, Former President.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 23.—Publication today of a warning by Regue Gonzalez Garza that recognition of General Carranza by the American nations would bring on anarchy in Mexico, brought sharply to the attention of the official Washington that the fight the Villa element is expected to make on any Mexican pacification plans that does not include the northern chiefdoms. Carranza is a possible factor. Garza was one time president and is here regarding the peace convention plans, which the Villa and Zapata elements have accepted at the invitation of Pan-American conferees.

Recognition of Carranza, Garza declares, would result in a situation that would be terrible in its consequences, and he argues that the convention to be held to establish a provisional government, regardless of Carranza's request, participate. He says that Carranza, next to Huerta, was the most hated man in Mexico, and predicts that if recognized he would prove his incapacity in a month.

FRYE FIGHT IS VICTORY FOR WILSON

TEUTONS ACCEPT PRESIDENT PROPOSAL TO FIX DAMAGES BY COMMISSION—MATTER SETTLED.

GERMANY BOWS TO U.S.

Financial Consideration Past Alleged Violated Treaty Right Will Go Before Hague.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 23.—Germany's latest note on the sinking of American sailing ship William F. Frye, published today by the state department, discloses an important diplomatic victory for the United States.

Germany accepts the proposal to fix damages by commission and to let the Hague pass upon the disputed treaty rights involved. She also gives assurance that no more American ships carrying conditional contraband will be destroyed under any circumstances.

American ships carrying contraband, however, still may be destroyed. What effect this can have in practical operation is problematical because Germany and Great Britain in their relations have made absolute contraband, practically everything which was conditional under the Declaration of London. On the subject, seemed certain to officials—German naval commanders now are ordered to exercise the right of visit and search with respect to all American ships to determine what cargoes the vessels carry, this making it practically sure that none will be attacked without warning or ample time for passengers and crew to be transferred, irrespective of the cargo.

Considered with reference to the entire controversy between Germany and the United States, the Frye note is regarded as an indication that the German foreign office is anxious to avert a break with the Washington government. This increased today the interest in the subject, Germany's attitude toward negotiations over the Arabic.

To reach the summit they were compelled to scale the precipitous side of the mountains, clinging to ropes, placed in position by mountaineers. The correspondent states that the Italians captured 200 Austrians and large quantities of munitions.

WEST ENDS TO HAVE STRONG NINE SUNDAY

Chicago Nine to Invade Janesville With Prize Aggregation of Star Players.—Cardinals Will be Ready.

By Friday the line-up of the Janesville Cardinals for the West End game to be played here on Sunday afternoon, will be completed and fans are expected a real title of gilded baseball as both nines have a number of league players who are out of the line-up of the Cardinals. The schedule of all the leagues, with the exception of the three major circuits, the West End nine has a worthy aggregation to line up against the Cardinals and a number of their players have appeared in the Cardinals uniform several times this season.

An first they have the giant, Almqvist, who played one game with the Cardinals before Joe Nelson was secured. Kavanagh plays second and Kavanagh, shortstop, and Kernan, when not out with the Cardinals, pastimes with them. Driscoll who has played for the Cardinals several games, Ashby and Gorman comprise their outer garden. Paynter is hoped to pitch against the Cardinals with William Kavanagh behind the bat.

The Cardinals have been after a Rockford Three-league pitcher, who is a winner, to comprise a staff to go against the Pellet Fairies providing this series is arranged. The line-up of the Cardinals hope to have during the remainder of the season is as follows: Delaney, c.; Orms, Wright and Higgins, pitchers; Johnson, lb.; Drake, 2b.; Joe Kernan, ss.; Jack Kernan, 3b.; Witcomb, Curtis and Nelson, fielders. With this line-up, the Cardinals would be fit to stand up against most any league nine.

Since their double beating in the hands of the Rockford Three-league club last week the Fairies will probably strengthen their line-up for the remaining games and a series between the two teams, if the Cardinals players are kept throughout, would be welcomed by the local fans. But the players here do not wish to see a constant changing about of players and a reduction of strength when the series is cinched.

BIG COLLEGES OPEN SEASON ON SATURDAY

Eastern Elevens To Play Their First Game on Gridiron on the Coming Saturday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Although a few minor games were played last Sunday on the gridiron the real season of the football season comes Saturday when Harvard, Yale, Princeton and other big eastern elevens begin to play. In the west there will be no important games as the conference does not open until October 2nd. The eastern teams take to preliminary training at a much earlier date than do the western teams and consequently are able to start their schedule at an earlier date.

The first two or three games on the team's schedule, especially on the big eastern teams, are supposed to be but merely practice games but they may furnish surprises. This year the big universities are better prepared for the opening games than last year.

Only a few prospects show that there is a chance that a new championship team may be developed this year. Until recently no teams but of the big three—Harvard, Yale and Princeton—were ever conceded a chance at the big game. Yale has dropped from her normal standing in football standing and this year is making a hard effort to climb up again. In fact the minor colleges are putting out elevens so well coached and skilled that even the big elevens fear them with an honest fear. Princeton with new coach Rush, a westerner, may introduce new football methods into the Tiger elevens to prove a big factor. The games on schedule for Saturday are as follows:

Harvard vs. Colby at Cambridge.

Yale vs. Main at New Haven.

Penn. vs. West Virginia at Philadelphia.

Princeton vs. Georgetown at Princeton.

Dartmouth vs. Mas. Aggies at Hanover.

Cornell vs. Gettysburg at Ithaca.

Carleton vs. Lebanon Valley at Carlisle.

Syracuse vs. Hobart at Syracuse.

W. and J. vs. Geneva at Washington, Pa.

Among the scouts from the big universities the hunt for the biggest prize of the season has been keen since it became known that Arthur Yates had left Yale. The giant tackle, whose versatility, speed and power made him the most desirable freshman player of the season and brought a class championship to the Yale team, has been visited more frequently by representatives of university elevens than any other player who has not chosen his future college. Yates has by no means abandoned the idea of college education. His pursuit of learning will cease only when he has secured a college degree, despite his severe experience at Yale, which resulted in his failure to complete the work of the freshman year. He is fully as eligible to play three seasons as a varsity eleven as he was when he entered Yale last fall. He was then the most promising player to go from any preparatory school to a college eleven, and he holds the same enviable position this season.

BOTH CHICAGO CLUBS DEFEATED WEDNESDAY

Red Sox Clinched Pennant by Winning Double-Header—Cubs Near the Celler in National.

Only a miracle now can beat the Boston Red Sox out of the American League pennant as they beat Cleveland yesterday, which puts them four full games ahead. Detroit took some of its grudge out of the losing Athletics, walloping them to the tune of 11 to 9. In fact, so sure are the Red Sox of winning that they have made a contract to play the world series game at the park of the Braves, which has a much larger seating capacity.

In the National the Phillies were idle yesterday, and while New York was walloping the Cubs in the front for the cellar championship, Brooklyn split even with Pittsburgh in a double header. Today the Phillies are leading five and a half games ahead of Boston and the Dodgers are a half game behind the Boston tribe.

Going Down! Cubs. Chicago, Sept. 22.—The Cubs went one notch nearer the cellar yesterday when the Giants took their measure for the second time by the score of 3 to 1. If the Cubs don't produce in the double-header today with the Phillies and the Giants train on St. Louis, the Chicago nine will slip down into the mire at the bottom after sailing along at the top of the National early in the season. Only a game and a half separates them from the pit of the ladder.

Rube Benton, the southpaw, halted the Cubs yesterday for after the Cubs scored one-run off Benton in the first inning, they were defeated by the third-inning Robertson combed a double with two men on the sacks, off Jim Lavender and the game was gone to New York. Burns stole home in eighth to add to the misery of the Bruins.

Hold 'Em! White Sox. Washington, Sept. 22.—Comiskey's "million" dollar purchased team slipped yesterday against the Washington Senators and were defeated by the score of 2 and 0. Gallia, who started, was too wild and the Sox failed to cinch the game while cinching was good. He went along to the sixth inning and the Sox for some reason failed to register. Ayres finished the game and continued to blank the Sox. The Senators scored both their runs off Benton in the first inning. In the third inning when McBride rined and Duke single scored him. In the sixth three singles put the second and unnecessary runs across for the Sox might as well have left them in the bag.

A Wild Game. Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—The worst played game of the season here resulted yesterday in a 10-0 victory for the Phillies over the Athletics. Bad pitching and poor fielding were exhibited by both teams. Detroit using four pitchers and Philadelphia three. In the seventh inning the Athletics scored a home run and lead and won the game by scoring runs. Nine men faced J. Bush in this inning and he was then taken out, with no one retired. These nine men gave him three hits, three errors, and three runs. In the eighth inning, Eales took J. Bush's place and two singles and another error sent in four more runs.

Counting the Money. Boston, Mass., Sept. 22.—The Red Sox continued their winning ways Wednesday, defeating Cleveland twice, 3 to 2 and 7 to 1. The visitors had a lead of two runs in the first game, but the Sox pitched well and won the game by scoring runs. Nine men faced J. Bush in this inning and he was then taken out, with no one retired. These nine men gave him three hits, three errors, and three runs. In the eighth inning, Eales took J. Bush's place and two singles and another error sent in four more runs.

RED SOX TO USE BRAVES' PARK FOR WORLD SERIES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Boston, Sept. 23.—The Boston games of the world's series, provided, of course, no miracle happens and takes the championship out of the hands of the Red Sox, where it is thought now to rest, will be played in the great new home of the Boston Braves, the greatest baseball plant in the world.

This is glorious news to many thousands of baseball followers throughout New England. Fenway Park, a thoroughly up-to-date establishment, notwithstanding, will not seat within 15,000 or 20,000 of what the Braves field will. And if a section of the outfield is roped off, several thousand more can see each of the games.

Minnesota Has High Hopes Of Landing Big Nine Title

Joe Kelley after scouting around for the Yankees, says the minor league club owned this year, in spite of all the hard times in baseball, asked higher prices than ever for their talent. Perhaps they had heard that Kelley represented a club backed by fifty millions, and he had his pockets stuffed with money. The wise buyer gets his talent at a fair price, no matter what may be asked of him in the beginning of negotiations.

Rube Marquard, who finally induced the affable Ebbs and the easy going Robinson to save him from going to the minors, put up the argument that relegation to the brush would seriously hurt his prospects for the coming winter in vaudeville. It never seems to have occurred to Rube that vaudeville in winter has seriously hurt his standing in baseball this summer. But then, we presume acting is the main thing with him and baseball only a little side line that he carries.

In the bygone days of baseball the speediest outfielders were stationed in right field so they could come in fast on a boulder hit into right field, scoop it up and throw out the batter at first base. In these days such a trick is a rarity; but twenty or thirty years ago it was common. A right fielder who couldn't arrange to assist on every three batters hit out his way was considered too slow to keep. Nowadays if a right fielder throws out a man a season at first base on a drive into his territory, he gets his name and pictures in the papers. Billy Sunday, now an evangelist, often threw out men at first base when he played right field. Mike Tiernan, Mike McCarthy, Tom McCarthy, Hughie Nicol and other right fielders of the 80's turned the trick frequently. But with their passing the feat became a lost art.

Norman Elberfeld lost no time in overhauling his Chattanooga team when he was made manager. He released infielder Hudnal, announced that "Pittler" would return to short, and that McBride would be taken on from Birmingham to play the outfield in place of Moose McCormick. McCormick, the seat of the utility roles as a result of complications from mumps.

It appears as though interesting revelations will attend the investigation which it is understood the national commission will institute concerning the Sleser case. Sleser, who recalled, played ball for the University of Michigan until recently, and then joined Branch Rickey's St. Louis team, where he has made good and is a drawing card. According to affidavits filed by the Pittsburgh club, in line with the flight this outfit is making to get Sleser away from St. Louis, the collegian was a professional long before he entered the seat of learning at Ann Arbor. Drayfuss asserts he purchased the release of the player from the Akron club of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League, five years ago. This was immediately after Sleser was graduated from high school, and prior to the time he entered Michigan.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Owing to the film being misdirected the picture play "Fighting Bob," with Orrin Johnson in the title role, will not be seen at Myers Theatre tonight, as previously announced, but will be offered on Saturday matinee and evening.

The offering tonight will be B. A. Rolfe's screen production of "My Best Girl," a very good comedy drama.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

The story of "My Best Girl," which is now a screen production from the B. A. Rolfe studios, in which Max Pligman and Lois Meredith are playing, comes to the Myers Theatre tonight and tomorrow, as follows:

Dick Vandenberg, scion of a wealthy family, is a student at the Stamford

Scene from "My Best Girl," Metro Comedy Picture at Myers Theatre Tonight.

University. Deeply in love with Dora, daughter of a chemist, he advances large sums of money to her father in order that he can carry out experiments on a new and highly destructive explosive powder. Dora does not know that Dick is befriending her father—her affection for Dick is inspired by real love.

Paul Benton, a student in chemistry, a fellow student at Stamford, a conscienceless chap and a woeful flirt, has had a disastrous love affair with Ann Bludge and cast her off. Ann's brother, learning of his sister's plight, vows to kill Benton. Dora's father, when his experiments prove valuable, arranges to show it to the government, and through Dick sends a specimen to Benton to be proved. Benton, discovering the value of the new explosive, plots to marry Dora himself and gain control of the explosive. When Dora's father receives word that the government has accepted his discovery, he is overcome and dies. Dora is now sole possessor of the secret.

Ann Bludge, learning of her brother's threat, goes to the college dormitory to warn Benton. Benton, when school approaches, places Ann in Dick's room, where she is discovered by an official. Dick is expelled from school and disinherited by his father. To escape disgrace he arranged with Brown, a no-account, to exchange names for two weeks. Brown is a deserter from the army and Dick, assuming the name, is arrested and sent back to the barracks at Angel's Island. At the barracks he sees Dora and Benton in each other's company. Sending for Ann Bludge, Dick finds Dora, and learns that Benton and not Dick, was the cause of Ann's downfall. Ann's brother later catches Benton trying to steal the explosive from the barracks safe. A terrific fight ensues, with the resultant arrest and conviction of Benton, exonerating of Dick and the happy consummation of the dream of Dick and Dora's life.

MAIL ORDERS NOT ECO- NOMICAL.

The person who buys from distant mail order houses, rather than patronize stores near home overlooks certain items of expense that he has to pay in buying from catalogs.

Usually an extra transportation charge has to be paid in buying of the mail order house. If you buy of your home dealer, who buys of the manufacturer, there is but one freight charge to pay, from the factory to the store.

But if you buy of the mail order house, the goods must be transported to the mail order warehouse and then shipped again from the mail order house to you. That makes also two extra charges for cartage to be paid, and often for packing and unpacking.

Furthermore, sending individual articles a long distance is the most costly way of shipping them. When the home dealer buys them, he orders a lot to come in to stock. He makes the transportation charges for each article a very small item. If you pay to have it sent individually either by express or parcel post from a distant place, much more must be paid.

If the mail order price seems cheap, it is usually because a second grade article is being sold. It looks very handsome in the catalog cut, which reveals no defects. But you would not buy it.

If you would give the home merchant a chance, he would tell you that he could sell the same article for as low a price, probably lower. But he would not want to do it, because it would not give satisfaction, and the sale of second class goods would hurt his business reputation.

Even if articles are sent postage or express paid, the consumer pays these charges indirectly by getting the poorer quality. It is a case of going farther and farther worse.

A CHANGE IS NEEDED.

All who have studied the matter agree that with the signing of the peace treaty, both Germany and England, our two great trade competitors, will engage in a separate war on the United States in an effort not only to recapture the trade lost during the war, but to break down the industrial supremacy of this country.

A prominent western business man declared that already foreign manufacturers are planning a "get-together," or syndicate movement against America following the cessation of hostilities in Europe.

If this country is still subjected to the baneful influences of a democratic tariff law when peace is declared, there can be no real outcome of the industrial bankruptcy of the nation. Already democratic opportunists are seemingly giving ear to the advice of business men, and dropping hints of a restoration of the duty on sugar, a protective duty on dyestuffs, and various other tariff palliatives. That this is contrary to democratic doctrine, every man knows, as he also knows that it is intended for campaign consumption next year. The country of industrial America will be restored only when the republican party, the party of practical common sense and sound business ideals, is restored to power.

There are other reasons why a change of administration is needed. The business of the country, especially the big business, has been regulated to a fizzle. The policy of President Wilson when the armistice was signed, was to encourage the men who had not arrived by tying the hands of the men who had gone to the front. In adopting this policy and enforcing it, American business has suffered as never before.

The democratic party has again been tried and found wanting. It is simply a repetition of former experiences. With all the great resources of the country a bone issue states the nation in the face and all because of democratic inefficiency. We need a change and need it badly.

A GIFT TO JAPAN.

The seamen's law, passed by the democratic congress, is hailed by Japanese business men as a deliberate gift of a monopoly of the carrying trade of the Pacific ocean. This view is set forth by Mr. Gishaku Takikawa, a vice-president of the Kobe chamber of commerce, who is now in this country. He comments pungently on the disappearance of the Pacific Mail Steamship company from the ocean by reason of the seamen's law, and says that this important concern should be forced out of business by American legislation, which, from a Japanese viewpoint, at least, might be expected to encourage and foster a national project, is something that an Oriental mind cannot comprehend. "You have," adds Mr. Takikawa, "by your own act, made the Pacific-carrying trade a Japanese monopoly, and the shipper already is beginning to suffer from the effect which inevitably follows the creation of a monopoly. You have delivered the Pacific into the hands of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, a Japanese steamship line, and there is no competition now with ships of other nations."

It is humiliating to know that our own senator, Robert M. La Follette, is the father of this destructive law, which means the death blow to the American merchant marine, unless repealed.

The physical valuation of railroads is another hobby of Senator La Follette, and it is on a par with his nefarious shipping bill. It is estimated the valuation of railroads will cover a period of twenty years and cost the nation $50,000,000. When completed it will amount to nothing, and simply represent a waste of time and money. It requires a large head to be a senator.

The net balance in the general fund in the United States treasury at the close of business September 13 was $49,990,237, compared with a net balance of $131,390,516 on the corresponding date two years ago when republican revenue laws and appropriations were in effect. The present administration has spent $31,935,000 more than its revenue since the first of July.

Cholly's Charm.

He told a thrilling story, elaborated much. When they had finished with him, he had to use a crutch. "Twas at the club, doncher know. 'Fellahs,' began Cholly Elbows, as he prodigally threw away a full quartet of cigarettes and lit the whole one. 'Fellahs, did I ever tell you of the time I conquered the lion by the power of me eye alone?' It seemed he never had. 'Well,' Cholly began, deftly flicking the ashes of his cigarette into the handkerchief pocket of his coat, 'I was out in the Mombissa woods without a gun, without a revolver, without even a walking stick, bah Jove, and the lion came along. 'Pon my word, fellahs, he was a monster! Must have measured thirty feet from the tip of his nose to the end of his mane. I mean his tail. 'Well, having no weapon, there was nothing for me to do but try the old dodge of fixing him with me eye, y'know, till he realized the superiority of mind over matter, and went away. I tried it, and lo and behold it worked like a charm. By and by he trotted off as meek as a lamb. Cholly paused a moment and then added reflectively, 'I haven't heard since whether it would've worked as well if I had been on the ground instead of up a tree. And the fellahs debated the question for half an hour.

MAXFIELD DISMISSES DUDLEY ARSON CHARGE

FINDS INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE TO HOLD DR. DUDLEY TO TRIAL IN DECISION.

EVIDENCE IS LACKING

Declares Evidence Shows That Offense Has Been Committed, But Not Enough Proof to Implicate Owner of House.

Judge Harry L. Maxfield this morning dismissed the complaint and warrant charging daytime arson, against Dr. E. H. Dudley and as a consequence Dr. Dudley was discharged by the court. The decision was given shortly after ten o'clock from the bench and ends a prosecution that extends back since Friday, June 16th, the morning when Dr. Dudley's house at 323 South Main street was discovered on fire. After the preliminary examination, Judge Maxfield deferred his decision on the motion to hold the defendant, Dr. Dudley, for trial for a period of over three weeks until today.

The state was represented by District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie, and M. G. Jeffers appeared for the defense in the court. The case was filled with spectators, who have been following the case. Judge Maxfield with the attorneys finally emerged from the court and he announced the following decision: "The evidence in the following decision is insufficient to warrant the holding of Dr. Dudley for trial. Therefore the complaint is dismissed and the defendant is discharged. However, if the state has more evidence to present the court will hear such evidence and then the defendant can stand trial."

Dr. Dudley who was in the court room when the motion was read left with a grating look on his face. Speculation as to the decision among those who heard the evidence was divided. It was the general opinion that the state had not produced enough evidence to convict Dr. Dudley on the charge of arson but that it was a debatable question on the extension of the trial. District Attorney Dunwiddie, after the decision, stated that the fire marshal had been in receipt of information which might develop if investigated, into important but not reliable, unless the case is dropped entirely because of the adverse decision this morning.

The fire at the residence of Dr. Dudley on June 16, has been admitted by the state to be of incendiary origin. At the date of the blaze the fire department arrived too soon after the early morning alarm. The vessels containing gasoline, mixed with kerosene, oil and turpentine, were found to be empty and performed the nefarious work expected. The firemen found that a portion of the stairway had been cut out in which was said by the state in the trial, to form a perfect draft for the fire to go from the cellar to the attic of the house, once the gasoline exploded and spread the blaze.

The afternoon of the fire, William C. End, deputy fire marshal, arrived and started an investigation. On July 12, Attorney Charles E. Pierce appearing, as an aid to District Attorney Dunwiddie, conducted with Deputy Marshal End an examination behind closed doors at the municipal court. Dr. Dudley and his daughter, Mrs. Dell Heath, were called on for forthwith subpoena and testing. Marshal End continued his probings and it was not until July 29th that a warrant was served by Chief of Police Champion on Dr. Dudley charging arson, to defend the insurance company. No plea was made by Dr. Dudley was arraigned and the examination was finally held after several adjournments on August 23rd.

There were many practical gifts attorneys in the hearing and on the second day most brilliant legal arguments were advanced by both sides over the holding of Dr. Dudley for trial. M. G. Jeffers gave a three hour plea that is declared to have been the best defensive argument ever made in the municipal court. The court reserved the decision and after one adjournment gave the verdict today.

STILL AWAIT WORD ON DR. WOODS' BODY

NO INFORMATION FORTHCOMING TODAY REGARDING MESSAGE RECEIVED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

WIDOW IS DOUBTFUL

Undecided Whether to Place Faith in Report or Not—Wires Washington and Ship Office.

Aside from the message of a few short lines from Queenstown yesterday afternoon to the effect that the body of Dr. E. H. Woods of this city, missing passenger on the White Star liner Arabic, had been washed ashore at Ross Carbery, county Cork, Ireland, a heart-rending silence prevailed over any other information.

On receipt of the news and the city at once called the White Star line offices and telegraphed the state department at Washington for information. Nothing was forthcoming up to a late hour this afternoon.

When seen this morning Mrs. Woods seemed more or less to doubt the authenticity of the report. She held out for immediate cause but reiterated her skepticism while discussing the possibility of the body being washed ashore.

She refused to give any statement relating to the disposal of the remains providing they are found. "I will have to await an accurate determination of the recovery of the body," she said, "before I can be able to make any statement. There is a possibility that if the body was truly found that it is already buried."

Throughout the day word has been awaited regarding yesterday's message. Both Mrs. Woods and the city as a whole scanned incoming morning newspapers to learn of any new information. Hidden away in obscure corners of the Chicago papers and in small type the news of the body was printed yesterday in the Gazette, escaped notice.

From a general review of the papers of the state, printed last evening and the morning papers, it seems that the Associated Press was the only news agency to distribute the report to its members. Neither the International News Service, nor the United Press carried the story.

From the meager report of yesterday and a consulting of maps of the Irish coast it would appear that the body was discovered within a distance of about five miles from the point where the Arabic went down.

Ross Carbery Bay is directly northeast from Fastnet Rock, off which Dr. Woods lost his life when the vessel went down. The Arabic was sunk off Old Head of Kinsale, about sixty miles due northeast in a line from Ross Carbery bay.

DESCRIBE ARARAT AS ARMENIAN HUB

Center of the Most Troubled Area of the World—Tribes Have Fought Here Since Dawn of History.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—"Mount Ararat, where there has hardly been a moment's peace since Noah and his ark grounded upon its massive shoulder, is at present the huge, troubled boundary mark between the Ottoman Empire and Russia, and under the shadows of the historic peak the fighting lines of Osman and Russian have been swaying back and forth, never for beyond the lines of the frontier."

Ararat is the hub of Armenia, of the original home of the Haik people. It is also the center of what has ever been the most troubled area on earth. Tribes of Europe and Asia have fought each other here from the dawn of history, and the remnants from the battles have settled as neighbors, hating, despoiling, massacring, on another. Caucasian history has always been of blood and destruction, of savagery and sudden death, of blackest treachery and heartless cruelty—a book whose every page is written of killings and desolations. Dramatic horror as ever stalked around Ararat's broad base, and the border warfare now in progress forms no hiatus in the land's normal life.

Ararat is one of the most impressive of earth's mountains, for it rises sheer to the clouds out of an immense plain with no neighboring peak to soften its isolation and to take from its majesty. A mighty Mount Everest is set well within a massive, sky-towering range of mountains; Mount Blant is merely a manifestation of imposing fellows, but Ararat stands up, with only a background of sky and plain and a frame of little mountain peaks, and it is without a peer.

The dominant mountain is split into two peaks, Great and Little Ararat. Great Ararat rises to a height of 17,000 feet above the level of the sea. Little Ararat, where the boundaries of the Ottoman empire, of Russia and of Persia meet, reaches an altitude of 12,400 feet. Though the snow-line of Great Ararat is covered with glittering fields of unbroken white, the mountain, which has always been the people who have wandered, passed or soiled beneath it. The Armenian priests long believed that the wonderful mysteries of its summit might never be surveyed by human eyes, and all thought of scaling Ararat was considered blasphemous in the light of sacred legends that the first people after the flood, the immediate descendants of Noah, were to be found in the valley of the Araxes, for the first time of men to grow up in the world after the flood.

The name Ararat means "high." The Persian name for the mountain, Koh-Nuh, means "Noah's mountain." It has been determined by the natives that the mountain was first placed in the Valley of the Araxes, a valley which at the present time enjoys the blessings that go far toward making it a wonderful claim.

Noah's wife was buried in this valley near the mountain, and grapes are still grown there, whose vines are the descendants of vines planted by Noah.

Ararat was first ascended by the German, Parrot, in 1829. The success of his undertaking is said to have given a rude shock to the Armenian churchmen, who strongly advised against the prying into the sacred mountain's summit secrets.

The climb has been made by quite a number of high tourist parties since, among them being Mr. James Bryce, the noted British diplomat. The ascent is said to be an easy one for the experienced mountaineer.

HERD OF WILD GAME GONE FROM RESERVE

Ashland, Wis., Sept. 23.—James Sisco, chairman of the town of Mercer in Iron county, was in the city today and reported the loss of part of a game herd from the reserve at Sugar Lake, near Mercer. The reserve is included in the summer estate of the owner, Charles Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox and another Chicagoan. The owners used the resort in the midst of five big lakes, as their summer home. It comprises four hundred acres and shelters great numbers of animals, natives to northern woods. The animals escaped Monday when one of the keepers cut his hand with an ax and in three days to get to the house neglected to shut the gate and the animals walked out. Eighteen deer, three elk and antelope and one big bull moose escaped before the loss was discovered. Search was immediately started, but no trace could be found of the animals. A train on the Chicago & Northwestern, almost half the moose which was grazing on the track. The animals have now been taken to the Big Woods and search has been abandoned.

The bull moose was obtained from Canada and held at a high price, by Comiskey. The three bulls to get obtained from Lincoln Park, Chicago, and the deer captured at different times in the north wood. The antelope came from Colorado and probably will get back here.

WELL ENOUGH.

A suffrage worker was talking to a business woman who was violently opposed to the change.

"I believe in letting well enough alone," said the business woman, primly. "You think that is always the best way?"

"My friend," said the suffrage worker, "please let me remind you that if the women of fifty or seventy-five years ago had let well enough alone, you could not have gone out into the business world and made your living as you are doing to-day."

"I suppose people have been saying, 'Let well enough alone' ever since the world began."

Any everyone who has said it has at that moment been profiting by the struggles of someone in past generations who would not let well enough alone.

She Couldn't Have Had A College Degree.

The business woman who wants to let well enough alone is a college woman. She is very proud of her college degree. She advises all her friends to go to college, even if they have to make a sacrifice to accomplish it.

She often speaks of the way a college education broadens women's views. Yet if certain splendid women, such as Mary Lyons and Alice Freeman Palmer, had believed in letting well enough alone this woman could not have had a college education.

She Couldn't Have Had Free Reading Matter.

When the above conversation took place, the business woman was returning from the public library with two volumes under her arm. It is a walk she frequently takes, for she reads much and avails herself constantly of the library's resources. Now, as we all know, there was a time when there were no public libraries, there was even a time when people questioned if public libraries might not be harmful. But there were some altruists who didn't believe in letting well enough alone, and they worked and sacrificed and today we have our wonderful free libraries (I often think by the way how little we appreciate them).

All the inventions, all the reforms in the world have been wrought by people who didn't believe in letting well enough alone.

I'm Ready For That Objection.

"But," the conservative will remind me, "you forget that much harm has also been done by people who didn't believe in letting well enough alone."

"No, my friend, I don't forget; but may I quote you once more that crisp saying of Stevenson that I love so well, 'We can forgive mistakes, but not even God can forgive the hanger back.'"

This is not intended as a brief for Women's Suffrage. Nor am I saying that this is always the best. But it is a brief against the spirit which says let well enough alone and means by "well enough" the stage which we happen to have reached just now.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Subsidized Motherhood.

One reason why we are unanimously in favor of full and unlimited woman suffrage is that we want to see motherhood subsidized by the government.

When a woman becomes a mother she is making a priceless gift to the state. As an educator she is appreciated; the state should present the mother an honorarium. This would be our idea of subsidized motherhood. It would be a great investment of state funds, the very best investment the state could possibly make.

Thousands of mothers suffer prolonged, unnecessary loss of efficiency even death because they do not receive proper care at the time of childbirth and in the following weeks. Nor too often this is attributable to the poverty of the family. Indeed, comparatively few families can afford the best kind of medical attention and nursing for such cases. It is the duty of the state, purely from a selfish interest, to supply such care or the means of obtaining it.

If there is one thing that fills a doctor's heart with hatred of his race it is the sight of a woman suffering from lack of proper care at a vital moment of her life. Graft, extravagance, luxury, capitalistic exploitation of the workingman, the working-woman and the working-child on the hand; misery, pain, disease, death, on the other hand. And then these moneyed hypocrites talk of "uplifting" and "improving" humanity and organize charity under businesslike methods for improving the condition of the poor. If the poor victims come to them and say, "Give us a fair wage," the philanthropists call out the militia and shoot them up.

In Germany, where old age is already pensioned, motherhood is also assisted by the state. American mothers and children are worth as much to the state as any others. Our laws should be so fixed that the filing of a birth certificate by the physician would entitle the mother to a definite weekly contribution from the government, sufficient to assure her the best obtainable care and attention for the first six months of her baby. It is a sad fact that many an expectant mother looks forward with misgiving to the arrival of the baby, simply because she fears the family can ill afford it. Here is a debt the state owes and should be glad to pay motherhood.

Now We Are Shouting.

I gather, confides a clergyman, that you do not recognize the value of alcoholic beverages, even medicinally. Is that from principle or from training? That is, are you expressing your personal views or the views of the medical profession in general?

Answer—We are stating the consensus of medical opinion. In these talks we endeavor to speak with due regard to scientific facts, and not merely give our personal opinions. When our opinion is given we invariably specify that it is our opinion. In this instance, however, the verdict is unanimous.

Infantile Paralysis. Please let me what is considered the most effective treatment for the weakness of muscles following infantile paralysis. Answer—Massage applied intelligently—not just rubbing. The art must be learned by taking lessons from an expert. Galvanic electricity and "muscle training" are important adjuncts.

SHORT COURSE GRADUATE IS HONORED AT EXPOSITION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 23.—Two years of the Wisconsin short course convinced Charles L. Hill of Rosendale that the production of milk and milk products could be made more efficient and profitable. Answering some of his fancies he started in keeping what has since become known as his herd of professional Guernseys. So well has been his success that his name is known to practically every Guernsey owner in the country. His latest recognition came when he was selected to judge his favorite breed at the Panama-Pacific exposition. This feature of the "Frisco" fair will be held Oct. 15.

WEDDING ON TYPEWRITER PERFORMED WITH MUTES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 23.—William R. Lyons and Mary Henderson presented themselves to be married by Court Commissioner Bates, said not a word. Neither did Bates, who sat down at a typewriter and typed the wedding ceremony. Spaces were left for the bride and groom, who filled in their parts of the ceremony. Then Bates wrote at the bottom of the peculiar document, "I pronounce you man and wife." Mr. and Mrs. Lyons are deaf mutes, from Faribault, Minnesota.

Cream the butter and sugar and add the beaten yolks of the eggs. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt with the former alternating with milk. Lastly add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Have your gem pans hot and well greased and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes. This will make eighteen muffins.

Glazed Round Steak—Two pounds round steak, 1 onion, flour, salt and pepper, hard or crisp. Have the butcher cut the steak quite thick and score it well; work in all the flour it will hold; fry onion in fat until brown, then take out and brown steak well on both sides cover with water and simmer occasionally and if necessary add more water; meat and gravy are ready together without further trouble.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in love with a man fifteen years my senior and I am twenty-five years old. I would like to know whether he is too old for me or not. I have asked him to go on the farm with him and he has said yes. I have known him for the last five years. He is rather quick tempered, but he gets along with me. I have just as quick as he gets angry. He is many to me in many ways. As I go along with him, I find I hardly know what to tell him, and so would like to have your advice.

(2) I also would like to know what a girl of my age should wear in colors. I have dark brown hair and dark brown eyes and an olive complexion. (3) I have a very high forehead and so would like to know how I should comb my hair to be becoming. I have extremely heavy hair also.

(1) The man is probably not too old for you, but unless you are sure you love him very much do not marry him. A man of his age is apt to be set in his ways and cannot easily adjust himself to a wife. Therefore the wife should care enough for him to ways the hair cut he combes it can be worn in a ponytail at the back of the neck, in coronet braids around the head, or with a twist on top of the head.

(2) Part your hair in the middle and roll it on either side. Then draw the hair together over the forehead and pin it with an invisible hair pin. With this as a start there are many ways the hair can be combed. It can be worn in a ponytail at the back of the neck, in coronet braids around the head, or with a twist on top of the head.

(3) If your mother really regards you as a child, you are making a grave mistake. Certainly she could have no reasonable objection to your being the friend or even the sweetheart of a young man. If she has some objection, ask your mother why she objects to this particular young man. If she cannot show that he has a bad character you are under no obligations to give him up.

Glimpses of Married Life

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Hello, mother! Where did you drop from?" Dick stood waiting to take her bonnet and coat.

"Where are Nell and the baby?" she asked, looking for him in the familiar room.

"They will be in a minute; I think they are over at Olive's. I'll call up and see."

"No, don't bother," interrupted the old lady. "Sit down; I want to talk to you."

"Is anything wrong?" asked Dick anxiously. "Am I such a bird of evil omen every time I come you think there's trouble afoot?" she snapped.

"Why no, but you seemed so serious," began Dick.

"Bah! I've no patience with your fine distinctions; if your left hand borrowed from your right I can stand that. Now this is my plan. I am sure that the fourteen shares can be sold for upwards of five thousand dollars and with the money—"

"I could buy a block of stock in the Scott-Frazee Co. Mr. Scott told me while he was here that there were two hundred thousand dollar blocks that would be for sale soon and asked if I could not arrange to buy them." Interrupted Dick in great excitement. "I suppose they would set aside both of them for you and let the thousands on the first five thousand go toward paying for the second block; the dividends and your savings would eat up the first five thousand and you would be making a systematic effort to save I would favor your father's plan of helping you get a god start in the firm."

"It certainly is very kind of both of you, but father took out that stock for his namesake. The latter he thought, were convinced to the first block of stock and the dividends on that when both are paid for will clothe and educate him. You don't deserve to get out with which skin," she continued, "and I hope if you're ever such a fool as to go into any more speculations, you won't get out without paying the penalty of gamblers."

"Now mother, why wish such a misfortune on Nell and the innocent baby?" laughed Dick.

"I don't; I'd like to have you suffer alone, but I've added a lowly 'No man liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself.'"

DRESS NOT BLAMED FOR PHYSICAL ILLS

Lack of Sports or Love of Strength Blamed by Japanese for Increase of Death Rate Among Japanese Women.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokio, Sept. 23.—Dr. Baron K. Takagi, member of the Japanese navy and member of the House of Peers, does not agree with Mrs. Akiko Yosono, the noted writer, that the women of Japan should adopt the foreign style of dress in order that the race may become stronger both physically and intellectually. He advises the women to stay in their kimono, believing that the health of the Japanese is being ruined by the craze in Japan to take over the manners and customs of the West.

"Do you know," he said to the correspondent, "that the statistics of the death rate of women in Japan are shocking? In most of the civilized countries as a rule the death rate for men is higher than that for women. In Japan the reverse is the case. The state of affairs did not exist in the early years of this century but has come about suddenly and only very recently."

The increase of deaths among women is especially noticeable among young women. The number of deaths among young women is alarming because it means fewer births and weaker children.

Compared with England, France or Germany the death rate for women in Japan is three times as high as in those countries.

Seeking the causes of this rise of the general death rate, Dr. Takagi said his investigation inclined him to the belief that the losing physical vigor of the Japanese was largely due to the increase in the number of students and their mode of study. He pointed out that scholarship and physical neglect went hand in hand. "Whereas in the United States with the prevalent love of sports, the desirable thing was to be physically strong, in Japan it almost seemed as if to be strong was a reproach. In the decade between 1901 and 1910 there was an increase of one and one-half per cent in the number of the cases of tuberculosis in Japan and this was due to the habits of the Japanese student. Dr. Takagi pointed out that educated men do not pass the examinations for conscription as well as the uneducated men do. Only fifteen out of every thousand college graduates who are examined for conscription pass in the A class."

For the growing physical ill of the race, eminent surgeon blamed the imitating of things foreign.

He advised the girls of Japan against the foreign custom of binding the waist. They should also be careful about the way they wear their obi and should cling to their Japanese kimonos instead of adopting the sleeve coats of the foreigners. The latter he thought, were conducive to colds because they cause the wearer to perspire. He was also in favor of clinging to the Japanese clog instead of adopting the shoes of the foreigners.

"The Japanese have suffered through adopting the foreign custom of wearing hats," he asserted, "they never had colds."

NATION-WIDE CAMPAIGN ON MISSIONARY WORK IS PLANNED BY CHURCHES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Washington, Sept. 23.—A nationwide missionary campaign to start next October is being planned by the directors and laymen of the missionary movement in the various churches of the United States. The campaign will include conventions to be held in the next five cities of thirty-seven states and the District of Columbia, and will end with a national missionary congress here April 25 to 30, 1916.

The number of registered delegates is expected to exceed 150,000 and 40,000 churches are to be invited to send representatives. In most of the large cities convention committees have been organized and plans for a campaign of education which will last two months are being made by the laymen.

The local convention is scheduled to come about the middle of the campaign. It is proposed to make a financial appeal during the campaign, but the directors expect that contributions to missions and church work will be greatly increased as a result of the activities.

In New England the following cities will hold conventions: Boston, Worcester, Mass.; Portland, Me.; Manchester, N. H.; and Waterville, Conn. Arrangements to participate in the campaign are also being made by Seattle, San Francisco, Buffalo, Denver, Tacoma and Chicago, among others.

What Proper Advertising Will Do To Make A Successful Auction

The first auction sale of the season was a big success.

At a sale held by James Van Etta on his farm at Lima Center Tuesday, Col. Dooley, the auctioneer, sold $3300 worth of stock and implements in 3 hours.

The attendance was large and the bidding was spirited. 37 cows averaged $84.50 a head. 50 cows and calves averaged $55 a head, and everything else sold in the same proportion.

The advertising used to bring this large crowd of really interested buyers consisted of three auction advertisements in the Janesville Daily Gazette and a few bills.

In speaking of the sale afterwards, Col. Dooley remarked, "It was one of the nicest sales I ever sold. The advertising in the Gazette did more than anything else to make it so successful. The money invested this way was returned many times over."

Germans Menace Central Russia, Former Cradle of the Empire

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—"Central Russia, which lies just before the advancing German lines, was the cradle of the empire, the seat of the Great Russians, and it is today the heart of the greatest state, where are the largest cities of the Slavs and the historic places dearest to the patriots devoted to pan-Slavism," begins the details of the empire's building. The Muscovite, or Great Russian, freed the land from the Tartar yoke, subdued many neighboring nations, and as a good colonizer, peopled the length and breadth of his possessions with his stock.

"Russian history, from the 14th century, centers around white-stoned Moscow, and from this center successive swarms of colonists and pioneers have sought homes in the northern forests, in the fertile southlands, and in far Siberia. Frolic, persevering, patient, persistent in their type, and with astounding reserves of recuperative power, the Muscovites have impressed their government, their faith, their language and their ambitions on the nation, and they, alone of the Slavonians, have created an enduring world power. Today the Great Russians number far more than the White and Little Russians combined, and the Muscovite pioneer carries Great Russia with him wherever he goes. The original of the Great Russian is found in the basin of the River Ok, which joins the Volga at Nishni-Novgorod. Here is the most developed and most populous district in all the empire.

"Central Russia is a vast plain, oppressive in its horizons, its sameness of coloring, and in the monotony of its life. It is crossed by great, sluggish rivers, with red banks. Its fields reach to the horizon lines, unfenced, vivid green in spring, greyish-brown in summer, and unbroken white in winter. Its forests are of birch and pine. Its villages are all alike, and all the houses in a village are alike. A village is a straight, abominable street, two rows of houses; a white orthodox church, and a signpost, with the name of the place and its number of souls. In the street are pigs, geese, garbage, and furniture. The great Russian is simple, and he is filled to one-fourth their area by monster white stoves, the first aids to Russian life, in whose ovens the peasants bake and take stews and upon whose upper surfaces they sleep in winter.

"Although an important manufacturing has grown up in Central Russia, as in Moscow and Tver, the Great Russians are still primarily an agricultural people. The first choice of the Slav is the working of land. In summer he and his family work barefoot in the fields; in winter, he banks his hut with earth and straw half way to the windows, hermetically seals it, and passes an idle, suffocating season in company with his stove, his cattle and his fowls. There is little wonder that his home is generally insect ridden. The peasants are capable of tremendous energy, though, in the run, they do not over-rate their value. They have many delightful virtues, but coupled with a grave tendency to be dishonest. Everybody steals, according to a candid and reckless proverb of their mining, 'except Christ—and He would if His hands were not nailed to the Cross.' In this connection it is only fair to note, that the peasant regards it almost as a righteous thing to 'convey' from the state or from an owner of the upper classes.

"The peasants possess an infinite appetite for receiving, though thanklessness is not a becoming sin among them. They are tolerant, content, and shrewdly practical, and, on the other hand, they are heedless of the modest claims of Truth and very improvident. They have a proverb: 'Beat your wife like your fur, but love her like your soul.' However, Great Russian home life runs a more untroubled course, probably, than in many lands more civilized with their degree of civilization. When not drunk, the peasant is generally mild, peaceful, and well-wishing. When under the inspiration of vodka, he often falls into fearful rages, becoming elemental and dangerous. It is upon these peasants of Great Russia that a large part of the duty of defending the fatherland must fall.

SWEDEN TAKES BOLD STAND TO PROTECT ITS NEUTRAL RIGHTS

Refuses to Surrender to British Demands Not to Export or Import Goods to the German Nation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 23.—If Sweden and England come to a satisfactory understanding regarding Swedish imports and the transit of supplies to Germany, this understanding will not be reached through any Swedish concession or alteration of her demands to be treated as a neutral nation enjoying the freedom of the seas, according to the statement made to The Associated Press by Eric de Trolle, President of the Royal Trade Commission, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, and at present member of the English-Swedish commission engaged in attempting to settle the trade dispute.

"Sweden cannot and will not surrender to English demands restricting her commerce," said de Trolle, "in order to help England in her industrial war against Germany. If she did this, not only would Sweden suffer industrially herself, but she would become virtually an ally of England. The last consideration is the more important, since Sweden would no longer be a strictly neutral nation.

"If she permits the transit of supplies between England and Russia and joins in any attempt to prevent the transit of supplies to Germany she is becoming an important base of supplies for the allies and is at the same time really entering into the war against Germany. Sweden's modest desire is to be allowed to carry on her normal industry and to observe a strict neutrality which means helping neither side in a military or industrial way, the exclusion of the other. In this point of view she differs with the United States which is supplying England alone. Sweden does not consider it a real neutrality. Her position, from which she will not recede is an absolutely neutral attitude toward all combatants.

"It is justifiable, that we should hold up supplies destined for Russia while England's stoppage of our imports of raw materials interferes with our industry and trade with Germany. We are sorry that Russia is forced to wait for her supplies which have accumulated here, but while our ships are being held in English prize courts, we think the action entirely justifiable.

"If it were only a commercial question, Sweden might find it possible to yield to England's demands, but since it is primarily a political question of not allying ourselves with either side, we cannot yield. We are, however, not hopeless regarding the solution of our dispute with England. Sweden is not unconscious of the English members of the commission have recently made proposals which may lead to a satisfactory adjustment of the question of restricting our imports.

"Exchange Necessary. There is no quarrel about the export to Germany of our own home manufactures or of the articles which are not placed on the Swedish prohibitory list—although England may think that the export is excessive. But I may say without violating the secrecy of the negotiations which are still under way, that the chief obstacle is the question of the exceptions which we are bound to make to our prohibitory export list in the way of special licenses granted to Germany. In order to get supplies which are absolutely necessary to us, we must give in exchange to Germany some of the articles on our forbidden list. It troubles the English because we cannot produce statistics showing the exact amount and character of goods shipped under these conditions. The publication of such figures would lead to obvious difficulties.

"Moreover, we cannot guarantee, as England would like to have us do, that supplies will be sent to Germany. Not only would we suffer from not being able to get what we need from Germany, but we would then be participating in the blockade.

"As to the assertion that our imports have increased beyond our own capacity for consumption since the beginning of the war, this is not generally true. Our war harvest and our inability to get grain from Russia and other supplies from Germany has, of course, increased our exports from other countries. But even if our exports have increased we do not recognize England's right to interfere with our commerce.

"Not Military Articles. Most Swedish exports to Germany are not military articles directly connected with military affairs. England cannot ask us to cut down our meat exports to Germany, for that is one of our chief industries. The kind of copper and the thin hides which Sweden sends to Germany are not available for military purposes. Nor can there be any criticism of our fur and wood, pulp exports to Germany. All these are the products of home industry, and most of the things which we send to Germany are for the civilian rather than for the military.

When the attention of Mr. Trolle was called to the fact that no supplies destined for Germany were arriving in Sweden and that therefore the question of allowing equal privileges for transit for supplies for Russia and those for Germany could hardly arise, he replied that that did not alter the case since it was not for England's interference with her commerce that Sweden would find a natural transit through Sweden into Germany.

BIG RUSSIAN TRADE OPEN TO AMERICA

Diplomacy of Ambassador Mayre at Petrograd Results in Important Commercial Advantage for United States.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Thanks to the diplomacy of Ambassador Mayre, at Petrograd, the cream of the vast and profitable trade which was opened up by the German embargo in Russia before the war will now go to American producers if they care to take it. Arrangements which will have this result have practically been concluded in Petrograd, and a big boom in the trade of the United States with Russia is looked for in the very near future.

The first step will be the release of the tremendous volume of Russian exports to the United States, upon which the czar's government placed an embargo shortly after the war was declared. The export of goods to the United States is to be permitted freely under a guarantee that such articles will not be re-exported from this country. The Russian government will be assured thereby that goods exported to the United States will not find their way eventually to the countries of its enemies.

The formal agreement between the two governments has been signed by Secretary of State Lansing and Russian Ambassador Bakhmeteff.

Barriers to Immediate Capture. The unsatisfactory state of the exchange market and the lack of adequate credit facilities are the chief barriers at present to the capture by Americans of the profitable Russian trade, which has brought thousands of German and British merchants to ruin. As soon, therefore, as the Russian exports to the United States are released the department of commerce will endeavor to work out a plan whereby American exporters to Russia may receive the pay for their goods from American importers from Russia. This arrangement, if it can be effected, would be a great relief to the exporters, who are now in a position to believe, in great measure, the existing credit difficulties.

Ambassador Mayre has gone still further in his efforts to let American manufacturers and producers in the Russian market on the ground floor before the conclusion of hostilities restores competition. It was at his suggestion that the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce of Moscow sent Alexander Behr to the United States as a special commissioner to promote closer trade relations.

To furnish important information, Mr. Behr has been in Washington a week, and already has had several conferences with department of commerce officials and eastern financiers. He intends to visit Chicago to consult bankers and producers of goods for which there is a ready sale in Russia. He will furnish information concerning the character and manner of handling goods which Americans now can sell most profitably in Russia.

One of the principal objects of Mr. Behr's mission is to promote the establishment of a Russian-American bank in Russia to finance the great American export business that will be built up by the manufacturers and producers of the United States take advantage of the exclusion of Germany from the Russian market during the war, and probably for many years thereafter. Mr. Behr believes that American capitalists could do American business to greater service than by joining Russian capitalists in the establishment of such a bank.

Ambassador Mayre's activities in promoting American interests in Russia have won high praise from the administration of Governor McAdams, business houses. Furthermore, he has handled a number of delicate negotiations pertaining to problems arising from the war, with rare tact and consummate success.

REV. DANIEL WOODWARD

Daniel Woodward, for nearly four years warden of the state's prison at Waupun, but who was displaced early in the spring through the election of Henry Towne, is now engaged in prison reform work here. Letters received by friends of Mr. Woodward indicate that he is well pleased with his new work. He declares that western prisoners believe in rational prison reform and that in his new work he is receiving much encouragement. The work which Rev. Woodward has charge of has been reorganized under the name of the Montana Society for Prison Reform. He will deal not only with criminal classes, but will extend the work to other unfortunate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Le Crosse, Wis., Sept. 23.—Palmer Van Voras, a civil war and survivor of Libby Prison, is undergoing the second imprisonment of his life here. His wife had him arrested for beating her and he was given twenty days in the county jail. To make matters worse, he secured a writ prohibiting Van Voras from leaving the state after his release from the housework and finally latched on a suit for divorce.

MICHIGAN PEACHES A DRUG ON MARKET

George J. Kellogg Returns From Oceana County Where Fruit Does Not Pay for Picking.

George J. Kellogg has returned from Michigan, where peaches do not bring enough to cover cost of picking. He also visited the state fair at Milwaukee and has unstinted praise for the fine exhibit of fruit. In a letter to the Gazette he says:

"Last Monday night I crossed the lake from the finest fruit country in Michigan, Oceana county, where the peaches are hardly worth picking and carting to market. One man with 3000 bushes offers any one his whole crop if he will pay him this year. The orchard has cost him this year. Riders Brother had at Kalamazoo, shipped 30 bushel baskets to Milwaukee of peaches, pears, and plums. They struck a Jewish holiday and there was no sale. They kept over one day and reported 'too soft' and the shipper got a bill for part of the freight besides the loss of the fruit. The canning factories are paying 20 cents a bushel for best apples and peaches. Shipments to Chicago and Milwaukee bring from nothing to fifty cents a bushel. This shows the necessity of 'Fruit Organization' which can put an agent in these big cities to handle their fruit.

"I visited the State Fair Wednesday, a cloudy day but no rain. The Meyer Hotel—F. W. Kasse, A. Meisenbush, H. C. Bradbury, E. C. Irving, J. W. McConnell, E. W. Williams, W. Green, Wm. Keller and wife, H. F. Kock, Emil Kasseka, E. W. Enters, E. W. Everson, S. D. Rodgers, Otto Wisch, Wm. Belker, Milwaukee; A. W. Wenger, J. Kundry, W. P. Kasse, Monroe; B. S. Nuzum, Tomah; J. H. Foy, West Allis; George Ullman, Jefferson; B. A. Knowles, Appleton; H. B. Asch-paid attendance was light but the show big; in the fruit hall it was immense; the state show by good judges was estimated at 280 to 300 bushels in one display and artistically arranged.

"The individual entries were very large and very fine, fruit, pears, and usually true to name. I saw three errors in one of the ten varieties that was awarded second premium. A Red Brehmlemer was passed off as Wolf River and a nameless one passed as Talisman Sweet. The county show of apples was very fine also, and the county show of agricultural products was far ahead of some years. All I saw lacking was a table of Everbearing Strawberries which should have been renewed every day. The continuous rains put the trade out of commission and that part of the exhibition was a failure. The attendance was light, owing to the threatening weather. The exhibits were very fine in all departments.

George J. Kellogg.

FORMER CHINESE THRONE IS NOW A PART OF PLACE FOR MOVING PICTURE SHOW.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Peking, Sept. 23.—The spirits of China's dead Emperors must shiver as they pass over the Forbidden City between the hours of eight and midnight in the evening. An extensive section of the "city" has been opened as a public park, in the center of which stands an imperial pavilion which has been given over to modern moving picture show. Any coolie who will pay the price of admission, a few cents, may sit beneath the eaves of the pavilion which in recent years contained a throne. The decorations of the great, heavy-roofed building are continued in the style of the late dynasty, dragons forming a conspicuous part.
